Our Citizen Soldiery.

The Ohio Legislature will soon meet. We thus early desire to call the attention of members to the importance of making some provision for our citizen soldiery. The law requires the observance of certain days in the year as seasons of military drill and exercise. The law also compels the raising of armories, and the care and repair of arms, and a number of other things, all requiring the expenditure of a large amount of money; and no provision is made to meet this outlay. A majority of the citizen soldiery of Ohio are not pecuniarily able to lose time and pay the expenses consequent upon keeping up a military organization.

It is proper that the State claiming military services from her citizens, should contribute liberally to meet the expenses incurred. When men who work for a livelihood, give their time and costume themselves for the "public service," the State should foot the bills necessary to fit them for her defense. The rent of armories, provisions for troops in encampments, extra-expenses incurred in frequent drills, and many other items consequent upon military service, ought to be paid by the State claiming such service.

We hope every newspaper in the state will speak out upon this subject, and especially call the attention of the Legislature to the necessity of doing our military justice by providing for the payment of necessary expenses incurred in preparing for the public defence.

Treason in the Camp—Smoke it out!
Tom Corwin says there is a West!—Bring him Home.

In that rich, classic, splendid, beautiful, magnificent, brilliant, and mollifying speech which Tom Corwin delivered a few days ago in the House of Representatives, and which fairly lifted the delighted and astonished editor of the Dayton Journal into the third heaven of sermons and ecstatic adoration, we discover the following germs of diabolical treason: "Op mit his head."

"I know we have but two points of compass now in our political geography—North and South. I beg gentlemen of the south to remember that there is in our country about nine millions of people who reside in the West; that they have an identity of language manners and social systems, although they may differ about what is called Democracy. That great western Valley contains about three times as many people as there were in the whole country when that great achievement, the American Revolution was performed, we of the West do not mean to be held responsible to the North or to the South, though with God's blessing, we mean to preach good and wholesome doctrines to both and if we possibly can, preserve and cherish fraternal relations with both."

Meeting of the Democratic National Committee.

The Democratic National Committee met at Willard's Hotel, on Wednesday, Dec. 7, 1859, at 12 o'clock M., agreeably to notice of the Chairman.

After full discussion, it was resolved that Tuesday, the 23d day of April, 1860, at 12 o'clock M., be designated as the time of holding the next Democratic National Convention.

On motion it was

Resolved, That it is expedient that the National Resident Committee be reorganized.

Whereupon the following gentlemen were appointed said committee, with the usual powers:

C. L. Vandallingham of Ohio, chairman; C. J. Faulkner Virginia; John Cochrane, New York; John A. Logan, Illinois; Wm. Bigler, Pennsylvania; Wm. Barddale, Mississippi; Miles Taylor, Louisiana; and Wm. A. English, Indiana.

The following resolution were adopted:

Resolved, That the chairman and secretaries of this committee be requested to engage a suitable hall in the city of Charleston in which to hold the Democratic National Convention and said convention, duly appointed by the regular Democratic organizations of the party in the States respectively, and to make such arrangements as may be necessary for the assembling and holding of said convention.

Resolved, That the resident committee take into consideration the telegraphic misrepresentations affecting the interests of the Democratic party forwarded to the Associated Press, and to provide, if possible, a remedy therefor.

Whereupon the Committee adjourned without day.

D. A. SMALLY,
Chairman.

JOHN H. GIBSON,
C. L. VANDALLINGHAM, Secretaries.

The Great West.

The Minona (Minnesota) Democrat thus speaks of the practicability of shipping beef and pork from the far West to Eastern markets:

MORE MINNESOTA CATTLE—Col. S. Olin returned from Chicago last week. In consequence of the low price ruling in the Boston Market, he paid the 40 cents he shipped from Rochester a few weeks since into "wires, and had been to day on his way to Boston. Col. Olin has purchased another score of 50 or 100 head of cattle, which he proposes to buy in the neighborhood of Rochester. There he will ship direct to Boston. Col. Olin also intends shipping 5,000 to 6,000 head of dressed hogs via Milwaukee and La Crosse and Grand Trunk Railroads to Boston. He is determined to convince the skeptical that Minnesota is the best section in the Northwest for hogs and cattle. He is the pioneer in the enterprise, and will make it pay.

This indicates that there is a West, and that she can not only feed the North, but she can also make the fire eaters north and south, keep step to the music of the Union.

GETTING OUT A PAPER UNDER DIFFICULTIES—We woke up this morning and found ourselves covered with a sheet of snow. Pleasant, very. On coming down stairs we found the same half full of snow, and the galleries buried in the same white covering. Went to work to set matters right again, and try to warm up the office, but up to the present writing, 12 M., we have employed six Irishmen and three Dutchmen to cut the wood and keep up the fire. We set a line an hour, warming included. Have serious thoughts of calling in a little red eye to our assistance. Oh, for a lodger in some warmer climate—[Kansas Statesman].

Notwithstanding and weaknesses of women, find faults with and berate them, yet there is a still small voice which answers from within, Oh, woman! you're a "tramp,"
